CITRUS MEN HEAR TALKS.

Gen. S. P. Jennison Makes Witty Impromptu Speech, Stating Senator Flint Has Made Good.Many millions of dollars invested in the citrus fruit industry were represented at the banquet of orange and lemon growers at Los Angeles Tuesday night. At least 300 men engaged in the citrus fruit industry from all Southern California counties were present, representative of the highest type of earth culture—men who have made a science of tilling the soil.As their guests were public officials, business men, financial leaders, railroad men and others, the total was brought up to 400.The banquet was given in honor of Senator Frank P. Flint and Congressman J. C. Needham of Modesto, in recognition of their work in the recent congress relative to the duties on citrus fruits. Other members of the California congressional delegation had been invited, but only S. C. Smith of Bakersfield was present besides the guests of honor, although letters were read from other members. Gifford Pinchot, head of the forest service, for whom the citrus growers have a warm admiration, also was present.Besides the three members of congress and Mr. Pinchot, there sat at the speakers' table F. Q. Story, president, and A. G. Kendall, secretary of the Citrus Protective League, which was responsible for the banquet; C.
Chapman of Fullerton, who acted as toastmaster; Willis H. Booth, A. F.
Call of Corona, M. H. Flint, W. D.
Stephens, Joseph Scott, Gen. S. P.
Jennison of Covina, J. L. Lindley, W.
G. Barnwell, general freight agent of the Santa Fe; Frank Miller of Riverside, James Slauson, M. F. Ihmsen, W. G. Fraser, E. A. Chase and Harry
B. Chase of Riverside, J. J. Byrne,
Stoddard Jess, John G. North, E. A.
Woodford, T. A. Graham, assistant freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, and others.Among local men who were present at the banquet were: D. E. Huff, manager of the Covina Fruit Exchange;
C. C. Warren, W. G. Hall, B. F.
Thorpe, G. T. Brown, C. H. Coffman,
L. Hotchkiss, L. S. Taylor, Gen. S. P.

hoff, A. M. Seeley, W. M. Griswold,

Wilkins.A. F. Call, who was one of the committee which went to Washington last winter to work for an increased duty on lemons, reviewed the history of the citrus tariff legislation, after which Mr. Pinchot was called on for a speech. He was greeted with a tremendous ovation, which showed the esteem in which Southern California holds him."I thank you very much, gentlemen," he said. "I rather guess, from that, I am in the house of my friends."Mr. Pinchot referred to the appreciation of Southern California for the work of the forest service."In no other part of the world," he said, "is the connection between the tree that bears fruit and the tree that bears men recognized as here.""Whatever success the forest service has attained has been due to the support of a few staunch friends who have enabled us to stand against the assaults that have tried to break the service down, but which have proved futile—and I have a great deal of faith that they are going to prove futile in the future.""I have had a good deal of occasion to refer to this city as a model. I do not know of any other place of civic work that compares in bravery and foresight with the Los Angeles aquid-uct. The forest service is doing what it can to help, and I believe you will make it a great success."John G. North and A. G. Kendall spoke briefly, and the hit of the evening, from the standpoint of wit, was

Aged Lady Passes Peacefully Away.

Mrs. Sarah Avis Hawks, the beloved mother of Mrs. William Crook of Rowland avenue, peacefully passed to rest at the home of her daughter early on Wednesday morning. Just with the awakening life of a new day she went to sleep like a tired child.After a long and useful life of over eighty years she died as she had lived —honored, trusted and loved. She reared her own monument while she lived in the hearts of all who knew her. Her life was completed if work well done constitutes completion. Her Christian life was beautiful from its beginning to its close, and through all the vicissitudes and sorrows that she met in the way, her faith in God never wavered. Especially was this true during the last few years of her life, during which time she was afflicted with a partial stroke of paralysis and total blindness.The funeral services were held from the Church of the Holy Trinity yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The sacred edifice was filled with friends and the services were conducted by the rector, Rev. Alfred Fletcher. The interment was in Oakdale cemetery.
The pallbearers were Messrs. Hoyt, Middleton, Platt, Atwood, Evans and Collins.

AZUSA DAY.

and Festivities.Saturday, October 9, will be observed by the citizens of our neighboring city of Azusa as a grand holiday and day of sports. They extend to the citizens of Covina and vicinity a pressing invitation to come over and enjoy their hospitality. The sports will commence at 9 a. m. and there will be something doing from that time until midnight.Among the features of the day will be a foot ball game between Occidental College and a picked team from Azusa, relay races, orange races, foot races, sack races, three-legged races, high jump, broad jump, shot put and other events. Entry blanks can be secured from Mr. Charles Knight.
Music will be furnished by a bell brass band. Free lemonade will be served and ample provision for service needs all day have been provided.

OUT OF DANGER.

J. H. Coolman, President of the Covina Water Company, on Road to Recovery.A turn for the better in the condition of Mr. J. H. Coolman, whose life was almost despaired of several times during Monday and the early hours of Tuesday, occurred Tuesday, and his condition now is considered free from imminent danger.Early on Sunday morning he was taken with severe pains in the bowels, believed to have been superinduced
by acute indigestion, and despite all the efforts of his physicians, Drs.
Jennings, Reed, and A. R. Smith, the latter of Los Angeles, no relief was obtained until Tuesday. Although still weak, he is now on the fair road to recovery and he expects to be on the street again in a few days.Mr. Coolman has been a resident of Covina for over twenty years, during which time he has been identified with every public improvement, being president of the Covina Water Company, a heavy stockholder in the Covina Home Telephone Company, and until recently owning large interests in the Covina Valley Gas Company.
Progressive, energetic, and at all times having the interest of Covina at heart, he is a man that can be ill-spared in this community and we rejoice personally in his promised recovery.

WILL SEE THE PRESIDENT.

Everyone in the Valley Will Have an Opportunity to See President Taft.J. T. Lindley, superintendent of the Slauson-Macnell ranches of Azusa, telephoned Dr. J. D. Reed yesterday that arrangements had been perfected whereby President Taft, on his trip around the citrus belt, would stop for a few minutes at the siding at the head of Palm avenue on the Slauson-Macnell property to make a brief address.Every provision will be made for the school children of the entire valley to hear and see the President, and every accommodation possible will also be provided for their elders to welcome this distinguished visitor to the San Gabriel valley.Mr. Lindley is anxious that the widest publicity be given this notice and that the whole valley join in giving the nation's chief executive a welcome among the orange trees that he will long remember.Further particulars will be announced next week.

Smith-Vincenhale.

Chas. F. Smith, proprietor of the Covina City Stables, and one of Co-vina's progressive business men, surprised a complete surprise on his friends Thursday by slipping away to Los Angeles on an early car and there wedding the girl of his choice after a courtship of several months. The bride, Miss Ella Vincenhale, is well and favorably known in Covina, having resided here for a number of years until a short time ago, since which time she has been living in Los Angeles. The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for the beach, where their honeymoon will be spent. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will occupy apartments on Center street until the completion of their new home, which Mr. Smith will build immediately.

Baseball Tomorrow.

The Covina ball team will play the Paradise Palms of Los Angeles tomorrow afternoon on the home grounds. Crossman will pitch for the visiting team. Covina will have a compote of new players in the field, Bradley of Glendora being expected to be one of them.

CRIPPLES TRIM BICYCLE MEN.

Covina Scores Two to One Against Racycle Team from Los Angeles.

Eight to four Clark, and his band of Racycles, failed signally to come through with the one to nothing part so widely attributed to their prowess and departed on the five thirty-five car for the city a badly beaten organization.

They took it good naturedly, however, both during and after the game, and thereby showed their ability to take defeat as it should be taken when it is justly merited. There was no excuse for the defeat. The Racycles had their own umpire and were effectively stopped from kicking in that quarter. There was, however, no grounds for dispute as the decisions were impartial, although sadly misplaced at times.

The two teams were about as evenly matched as at any other struggle on the home grounds. On account of the badly crippled condition of the locals, the Racycles had about an even chance for the money and for a time bid fair to come away with the long end of the score. Miller's pitching at the first of the contest was not up to standard, which, connected with the rather demoralized bunch playing behind him, led to three runs rolling up against him in the second canto. With this lead it looked impossible for the San Felice bunch to pull out of the hole, but through some slick work and a few errors at critical times on the part of the wheel men, the gap in the score was closed up and as the good work progressed the score was gradually swelled until eight large ones were added to the Saints' string.

The game was one of the most interesting seen for several weeks. On account of the teams being so evenly matched there was the possibility of the home bunch losing that has not been the case for some time past, on account of the quality of players being so far superior on the San Felice team to those of the other aggregation they have met in the Interurban League. While the fans like to see a fine team to represent their town and to be able to take the big end of the score from all comers, they like to see a class of ball where the two teams are somewhere evenly matched for which reason the game last Sunday was more to the liking of the crowd than many of the former contests.

The home team was there to win and had the confidence of the crowd to boost them along, yet, at the same time there were many in the ranks of the fans that would not have bet a five cent piece that the Saints would come out unscathed. Such a feeling is what makes a good ball game and goods crowds, and lots of interest and excitement.

About the greatest article of ball seen on the diamond this year was dished out by Jess Wilson, Sunday, playing the third bag for the locals. The youngster was there on all kinds of high ones, low ones, fast ones, and slow ones and he sent them over to first in a way that they usually arrived some time before the runner showed up. His playing is always away above the average both in ground work and hitting, but Sunday it was particularly noticeable.

THE GAME IN DETAIL.

Morse led off for the Racycles with a fast bouncer that Wilson on the third station gathered in and winged over to first, disposing of his man as he likewise did with Miller's grass clipper a second later. Pearne thought it was no use and laid one into Shirley's glove that the latter assisted over to first in time to cut off the runner.

For Covina, Chess advanced the ball into the center garden's outstretched mitts and Monte struck out. Libby went to first on the first baseman's muff, went around to third on the catcher's overthrow and there expired when P. Fairly swung at three wide ones.

In the second, Case, for the visitors, dropped one back of second base and advanced on Wilson's fumble of Daniels' hot grounder after Duprey had flown out to Aguayo. N. Alexander put a beautiful single just out of the infield, bringing in Case from the second station and putting Duprey on third, from where he ambled home on H. Alexander's one-base swipe to short right field. Clark scored the first Alexander with a lightning throw to the plate. Miller hit to Wilson on third, who cut off H. Alexander from scoring by a lightning throw to the plate. Miller hit to Wilson on third, who cut off H. Alexander from scoring by a lightning throw to the plate.

In the last of the second, Wilson started times with a lovely single, and the infielder, Miller, forced a foul ball, and a very close play at the first base was against Wilson going to third. Fairly drove a sizzler straight into the third baseman's hands, who caught Wilson before he could return to the bag, spoiling a mighty good scoring chance in this division. Aguayo was present with his usual horseshoe and was safe on the right fielder's muff of his long fly. The fielder recovered in time to throw Bab out at second. Shirley retired the side by striking out.

In the third the visitors were disposed of without crossing the tape and the locals annexed their first score. Chess again led off, getting his base on the third baseman's error. Monte brought him in with a clean one-base hit. Libby was thrown out on an attempted sacrifice. P. Fairly was hit, Wilson fouled out to the catcher and Miller lofted one to the shortstop who trapped it.

Again in the fourth the Racycles were shut out. The locals succeeded in bringing their total up to three, enough to tie the score, in this inning, on hits by Bab Fairly and Aguayo, a sacrifice fly by Shirley and the right fielder's muff of Chess's fly. Both teams were without anything to show in the fifth and the sixth netted nothing for the visitors. For the locals the last of the sixth brought one more. Miller dropped a high three-corner smash over the left fielder's head, B. Fairly struck out, Aguayo drew a free passage and Shirley sacrificed Miller across the plate with the run that gave the locals the lead.

Their supremacy was short lived as Clark walked, went to second on Chess's error and came clear around on a collection of wild throws. The other members of the Racycle batting order in this inning retired with nothing to their credit.

The Saints donned their batting clothes at this stage and connected with Clark for two big ones and again in the eighth annexed another one that gave them the game far and away from danger.

PUENTE.

J. A. Unrah and several surveyors were engaged in surveying on the Baldwin subdivision the first of the week.

Mrs. Isaac Melnis, who left Thursday for Santa Barbara, where Mr. Melnis is stationed as foreman of construction of the Southern Pacific railroad company, was the guest of honor at a farewell party Wednesday evening. Thirty-five of her friends took possession of her home and after gaily surprising her, conducted her to the Fraternal Brotherhood Hall, where dancing and games were enjoyed and a lunch served.

Ledyard Ashby, who had his skull fractured in a runaway accident several weeks ago, has so far recovered under the skillful treatment of Dr. Reed of Covina as to be able to commence his studies at the Rowland school this week.

Miss Minnie McCaig of Rowland is visiting Los Angeles friends this week. L. Didier is still ill and his physician and family fear the disease may develop into appendicitis.

The Ontario Implement Company has opened a branch office here, which is under the management of Welch and Holbrook.

The Puente grammar school opened Monday with Miss McGoray of Los Angeles in charge.

Geo. E. Cross and family returned Thursday from Ocean Park, where they have spent the past two weeks. Mr. Secor, in charge of a party of surveyors, was at work in this vicinity in the interest of the Good Roads Commission.

Denver, Sept. 20.—W. W. Dupul, in jail on a charge of attempting to slay his wife, charges that she has eloped with Alvin, his 18-year-old son by a former marriage, to Covina, Cal., after selling the household furniture.

In parts of letters which he submitted to the court, with statements that they were written by his wife to friends, the following reference is made to the youth:

"Such lips, oh, they are the kind that poets of all ages have raved about; and eyes, his are the kind that drive women to dreaming when they are still awake. And he is so young and innocent. It is a pity to do it, but I feel that I shall have to lead him astray."—Los Angeles Record.

Theatrical Notes

MAJESTIC.

After a successful engagement at Weber's Music Hall, New York, during the past season, "The Girl from Rector's" comes to Hamburgers' Majestic Theater for an engagement of one week only, beginning tomorrow night, (Sunday), with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

The work is a translation of Pierre Veber's famous comedy, "Loute," by Paul M. Potter, who became known to American theatre-goers by his dramatization of Du Maurier's "Tribly."

"The Girl from Rector's" is declared by the metropolitan critics to be one of the funniest of high-class productions made there in many years. The plot deals with the actions of a young society woman of Battle Creek, Mich., who is charitably inclined. She spends most of her time in her own circle at home, but her husband, a judge at the Court of Shanghai, is away for such long periods she decides to go to New York for recreation. She is attracted by the gliding lights at Rector's and there she makes her headquarters. In the course of time she earns the sobriquet of "The Girl from Rector's" and on her next visit to Battle Creek she meets at the home of a society friend many of those of the Rector circle. She had been posing as the daughter of a Buffalo man and while "The Girl" is away, is endeavoring to explain her real identity, complications arise which reveal a series of situations that keep the audience in a roar to the final curtain.

The company is the one that played the piece at Weber's and includes Carrie Webber, Beth Tate, Laura Lyman, Isabelle O'Madigan, Marie Tower, Grace Barton, the Pendleton Sisters, John J. Clark, William Sellery, Dwight Allen, Edward Burton, Harry Fowler, Charles Sherman, and many others.

AUDITORIUM.

Mr. George Fawcett, who comes to the Auditorium Sept. 27th, as the star in Messrs. Shubert's production of "The Great John Ganton," is counted by many students of the drama as America's foremost character actor. Mr. Fawcett has had a long and brilliant career, punctuated with notable successes. He made his first appearance on the stage in 1886 at Niblo's Garden in New York. Later he played with Tomasso Salvini at the Broadway Theater, appearing in "Samson," "The Gladiator," "The Outlaw," "Othello," and other of the Salvini successes. At the American Theater in 1895, he played Ruggles in "The District Attorney," afterwards appearing with Nat Goodwin in "A Gilded Fool," and "David Garrick." Subsequently he entered Maude Adams' company, achieving prominence in New York at the Empire Theater in 1897. A year later Mr. Fawcett founded the now well known Fawcett company in Baltimore, where in succeeding seasons he made many notable productions. He was the original captain Joe in "Caleb West" at the Manhattan Theater, New York. He created the part of Big Bill in "The Squaw Man" at Walleck's Theater in 1905, and the year later the well known character of James Phegan, the alderman, in "The Man of the Hour" at the Savoy. It is perhaps these two parts that fixed Mr. Fawcett's position of supremacy in character work. His greatest honors came to him two years ago when he was engaged to play the part of Big Bill in the London production of "The Squaw Man." In this version of the play Mr. Fawcett's part was given great prominence, and the success of the drama in the English metropolis was in every sense a great personal triumph for him. The part of John Ganton, Mr. Fawcett's latest starring vehicle, has been counted his greatest achievement.

BURBANK.

The popular Burbank stock company which, within the past two months, has given Los Angeles theatre-goers an opportunity to see an even half dozen plays never before offered in stock, will put forth another novelty during the week beginning with a matinee tomorrow (Sunday) and including the usual Saturday matinee performance. The play, a comedy from the pen of W. Somerset Maugham, whose "Jack Straw" was seen and enjoyed at the Burbank a short time ago, is "Lady Frederick." Ethel Barrymore's biggest success and in it Miss Lillian Burlant, took in the second week of her special engagement at the Burbank, will play the same role, created in this country by Miss Barrymore. "Lady Frederick" never before has been played in any stock company in the United States and Miss Barrymore's performance will be the second in the history of the theatre to be played in the same part.

Though its characters are English folk, the scenes of "Lady Frederick" are laid at Monte Carlo, the action covering a period of three days. The comedy will be produced under the direction of David H. Hartford and in addition to Miss Burkhart will enlist the services of A. Byron Beasley, Harry Stockbridge, Mr. Hartford, John W. Barton, Frederick Gilbert, Willis Marks, Wayland Trask, Miss Lovell Alice Taylor, Miss Louise Royce, Miss Margo Duffet and Miss Maude Beatty. "Lady Frederick" is an impecunious, middle-aged woman who keeps an imposing butler to ward off duns and who is herself so adroit that when a fashionable dressmaker calls upon her to collect a bill she succeeds in sending the woman away after having inveigled her into tearing up a check given in payment of the account. Persuaded by her need of money Lady Frederick is contemplating marriage with a young scion of title and wealth who is infatuated with her but whose mother steadfastly opposes the match. The boy, ten years her junior, persists however, until finally Lady Frederick bids him come to her rooms for his answer. There she proceeds to disillusion him by permitting him to see the mysteries of her toilet. Ultimately she marries another man and presumably lives happily ever after in a place where duns trouble her not.

BELASCO.

With the production of David Belasco's celebrated play, "DuBarry," the Belasco theater company Monday night enters upon the most ambitious work ever undertaken by a stock company in this country. The Belasco piece which served Mrs. Leslie Carter so well for four theatrical years and which proved to be her most successful offering, is not well calculated to engage the attention of the average stock company, first on account of the enormous expense attached to the presentation of the big scenes and secondly on account of the unusually large cast required for the portrayal of the different personages of the play. Besides Mrs. Leslie Carter and Florence Roberts, no native actress has ever been in the name part of the play and to Thais Magrane will come the most notable opportunity of her career Monday night, when she is seen as Jeanette Vaubernier, the little Parisian milliner of humble parentage but of great physical beauty and charm of manner.

The Belasco company's production of this great play, it is expected, will be the greatest sort of stock achievement in the matter of pictorial stage beauty, gorgeous light effects, rich and costly costuming, while the properties are not only elaborate in the extreme, but represent with wonderful verity the period of the play.

"Du Barry" is of such length that the attention of prospective theatergoers is called to the fact that the curtain will rise on the first act every night at 8 o'clock.

A Near Anthem.

Walt Mason in Emporia (Kans.) Gazette.

My country, beautiful land! I'll sing, if you will stand, a song to thee! My harp is rather coarse, my voice is rather hoarse, yet will I try to force some melody. Fair land that saw my birth, gem of the whole blamed earth, hark to my screeds! Tell me, oh, tell me, why prices have soared so high that man can scarcely buy things that he needs. Things that a man must eat—lemons and prunes and meat—cost like Sam Hill; carpets and rugs and mats, neckties and shoes and hats, shirting to hide his slats, empty his till. All through the week I work, like an unlauded Turk, for a few bucks; no odds how hard I try, of wealth I'm always shy, and when I travel I ride on the trucks. They say that half a plunk bought more and better junk, in the old days, than will two bones or more, in the big modern store, since prices learned to soar, five hundred ways. My country, hear my word! You are a humming bird, also a peach! Splendid in peace and war, thou most effulgent star—tell me why prices are clear out of reach!

COVINA, CAL., SEPT. 25, 1909.

"We are surprised to learn that up-to-date Covina has no board of trade or similar organization."—Chino Champion.

Editor John A. Hildreth of the Corona Courier died Monday at the Loma Linda sanitarium. Mr. Hildreth was well known in newspaper circles and under his editorship the Courier has been made one of the best weeklies in Southern California.

There surely is some class to Covina (where oft-times indistinctly addressed Covina mail is sent). The trustees there are soon to open bids for $125,000 worth of municipal improvements, including a sewer system, storm drains and street work.

The Santa Fe railroad has made a clean record for the past year in not having killed a single person on its entire system. During the twelve-month the road carried 12,695,697 passengers. When the size of the system is considered, and the diversity of climatic conditions under which it operates, this record means a great deal for the safety of travel by rail.

Farmers' Club Meeting.

The September meeting of the Covina Valley Farmers' Club was held at the beautiful residence of Mr. Ben F. Thorpe, the president of the club. It being a warm day, the Italian features of the home were very much appreciated, including the pergola and grounds in the rear of the house, as well as the front terrace.

About eighty people were present and a very interesting session was held. The principal subjects discussed were the arranging for a permanent exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles of the citrus fruits grown here, the investigation of the poor roads in our community, with a committee appointed to try for their betterment, and a publication of a new issue of the booklets descriptive of this locality.

The annual report of B. A. Woodford, president of the Southern California Fruit Growers' Exchange, showing the wonderful progress and success of this great institution, was read, and a vote of thanks tendered Mr. Woodford. The musical part of the program was especially interesting, as Ellen Beach Yaw favored the club with four songs in her characteristic sweet and charming manner, that captivated all present.

Refreshments of pineapple ice and cake were served, and the club adjourned to meet in October at the residence of Mr. J. R. Elliott.

Attending Conference.

Rev. Harry W. White, pastor for the past two years of the Covina Methodist Church, left for San Diego on Wednesday to attend the Southern California conference, now being held in that city.

Several of the official members of the local church left on Thursday morning to attend the conference, carrying with them a request to the Bishop for the return of Mr. White to his present charge.

It is known that other churches are seeking this popular young preacher.

At the Marriage Altar.

At the home of the Rev. Henry Larrick at Long Beach, Monday afternoon, was solemnized the marriage of Mrs. Lillie Penland and Mr. E. C. Rust, both of this city. Following a brief trip the happy couple returned to Covina and are now occupying apartments in the Hodges flats on the San Bernardino road.

Enterprising Firm Branching Out.

The enterprising implement firm of Twomey & Diller, of Covina and Pomona is now making arrangements to enter the Ontario field with a branch establishment. They will open a branch firm with a fully equipped stock in that city by October 1.

GRAMMAR GRADE NEWS.

This Week Shows an Enrollment of 332 Pupils. Girls Taking Domestic Science.

A number of new pupils have been enrolled this week, making the present enrollment 180 boys and 152 girls, a total of 332. Every year a large number of pupils enter school late because their parents have not returned from their vacations in time. This makes the school record for the first month very low.

The girls of the grammar school went to the new high school this week for their first work in domestic science. The lessons in this for last week were given in the different grade rooms, as they consisted largely of directions as to the necessary caps and aprons needed in this course. The boys are getting some practical work in sloyd by way of ceiling the basement.

Most of the grades are large, making the division of the rooms almost necessary. This does not mean that there are to be two grades in one room, but that there will be two classes. In this way the teacher will have smaller classes to handle and the pupils will have shorter and less tiresome periods. These two classes will cover exactly the same work.

We wish to call the parents' attention to the fact that every day's attendance counts, not only to the district's school fund, but to your boy or girl as well. Please remember this when you are thinking of keeping your boy or girl out of school for the circus. Do not expect your boy or girl to keep up with the class when she or he has been irregular in attendance. Show your loyalty to the school and your town by helping to make your school record the best in the county.

W. J. NEWSOM, Principal.

A Wide-Awake Sunday-School.

One of the most active and interesting institutions in Covina is the Sunday-school of the Christian Church. It seeks to employ the latest and most approved methods of instruction. The enrollment of the school, including the Home Department and Cradle Roll, is about 300. Mr. O. D. Brouse is the efficient superintendent, and Mrs. Frank Chapman is in charge of the primary department. Mr. Robert Phillee leads the splendid orchestra of almost twenty pieces.

Besides the regular offerings, averaging about $10 a Sunday, special gifts to foreign and home missions have been made during the past year amounting to more than $400.

Sunday will be observed by the church and Sunday-school as "Declaration Day," and will be a day of more than ordinary interest to all members and friends.

Becomes Pastor in University Town.

Rev. C. M. Warner, son of Justice and Mrs. Austin Warner of this city, has just been assigned by the California Conference as pastor of the First M. E. Church of Palo Alto. This is one of the most desirable charges in the California Conference, and carries with it a fine parsonage and a stipend of $2000 a year. The congregation consists largely of Stanford University students.

Real Estate.

Several small sales have been consummated during the past week.

Stanton & Harnish have sold for A. E. Zug a small residence and lot on Italia street to J. M. Rush. Consideration, $850.

The editor of the Argus with his family have returned from a pleasant two weeks' vacation at Catalina.

The Woman's Guild of Holy Trinity Church intends holding its annual sale on Tuesday, Nov. 30.

Mrs. D. J. Seiple and sister-in-law Mrs. Anna R. Smith from Mt. Carroll, Ill., were visiting relatives in Covina the past few days.

Mrs. J. M. Whitsel and her father-in-law, Mr. Whitsel, a visitor from Indiana, were spending the early portion of the week visiting friends and relatives in Whittier.

The joint Christian Workers' meeting of the Brethren Church was held in Pomona on last Sunday evening. A large delegation from Covina was in attendance.

Mrs. Martha Hibsch, the popular rural mail carrier on route No. 1 for the past three and a half years, who has been on her annual vacation, has returned from a visit to friends at Aplos, California.

POMONA DAY.

Prosperous Town to the East of Us
to Celebrate Sept. 30th.

Considerable curiosity has been aroused as to the meaning of the advertisement appearing in the local papers and also tacked up at every conceivable point of vantage along the highways bearing the inscription, "Sept. 30th, '09—P. D." Close scrutiny develops the enigma, "September 30th, '09—Pomona Day," of course.

The wide-awake merchants have inaugurated an annual "Pomona Day," thus adopting the method of and profiting by the experience of other up-to-date communities. This method of bringing themselves and their wares into closer touch with the customer, even at considerable outlay, appears to meet with universal approval wherever the experiment has been tried, "Pomona Day, 1908," being a striking example of the phenomenal advantages accruing to both merchant and customer.

On "Pomona Day, 1909," the local merchants have arranged a long list of special bargains to reward those who take advantage of this occasion, and, in addition, there will be displayed on every hand the latest in men's ware, dress goods, millinery, shoes, kitchen utensils, edibles, furniture, and every other conceivable necessity and luxury, all that a wide-awake, up-to-date town may reasonably be expected to carry.

"Seeing is believing," and these three little words contain the whole secret of "Pomona Day."

Realizing that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," the merchants' committee has arranged an intensely interesting, entertaining and attractive program and, in addition thereto, will provide for rest rooms, ice water galore and such other conveniences as the comfort of visitors requires.

The large display advertisement specifies the program of entertainment. These attractions have been secured at considerable expense and only after a great deal of energetic work on the part of the amusement committee.

Balloon ascensions are always interesting and attractive. There will be two of these, and in addition thereto, two most novel and thrilling high dive performances. The evening high dive will be especially exciting, when the diver, his suit soaked in oil, standing nearly 100 feet above the heads of the spectators, is suddenly seen to blaze forth in a mass of flame and plunge through space like a thousand meteors, to disappear in but a few feet of water, reappear hale and hearty, none the worse for an experience that Rockefeller's millions couldn't induce the average individual even to consider.

There is also to be a baby contest. At least 100 entries are expected. Valuable prizes and souvenirs will be distributed to all babies entered.

The Seventh Regiment Band of Pomona will be on hand every minute of the day and until they retire to April, 1910, and the enumerators must opera house. This will not be until after the illuminated high dive.

It is expected that fully 20,000 people will attend this year's "Pomona Day," and, in anticipation of so large an attendance and the evidently growing popularity of the day, the railroads have agreed to sell tickets at special excursion rates from all local points.

The arrangements made and the interest displayed, to say nothing of the large amount of money expended for the entertainment of visitors, assures a big "Pomona Day," Thursday, Sept. 30th, 1909.

Enumerators For Census.

About sixty-five thousand enumerators will be needed for the thirteenth decennial census of the United States, and also of Hawaii and Porto Rico, according to estimates prepared for Census Director Durand by Geographer Chas. S. Sloane of the census bureau, in whose division the enumerators' districts are defined and fixed. This is an increase of about 11,000 over the number of schedule-carriers in the census of 1900.

The present census law requires that the enumeration of the population shall be taken as of the 15th of April, 1910, and the enumerators must forward their returns to the supervisor within thirty days from the commencement of the enumeration, except that in any city having five thousand inhabitants or more, at the preceding census, the enumeration shall be completed within two weeks.

Sunday-School Workers Will Convene
in Riverside.

Sunday-school workers, representing every denomination in all the cities of Southern California, will assemble at Riverside November 9, 10 and 11 to attend the twentieth annual convention of the Southern California Sunday-School Association.

It is expected that more than 5000 of the Sunday-school workers of the Southland will be in Riverside on these dates for the convention.

HISTORIC SAN GABRIEL MISSION.

Some of the Means Being Used to Preserve the Old Spanish Church.

Last week the San Gabriel Mission Society held a three days' fair, which ended with a barbecue, at the mission for the purpose of raising funds for the purpose of the restoration of the historic old structure. People attended from all over Southern California.

The old church has withstood the elements since 1771 with few repairs. During this long period hundreds of thousands of persons from all parts of the world have stood beneath its roof and marveled at the able workmanship of long ago.

Last June a few of the American members of the parish formed the San Gabriel Mission Society, which has for its object the restoration of the church and keeping the grounds and old cemetery in order. The society also hopes to build a parochial school for the children of the parish.

The present membership of the society numbers thirty, but more are constantly joining it. It proposes to raise funds by giving entertainments from time to time.

San Gabriel Mission is one of the oldest ones on the Pacific Coast. It was founded by the Franciscans when the surrounding country was inhabited only by Indians. Later came Spanish soldiers, some Spanish women and many Mexicans. While California was a Mexican possession, San Gabriel for a time was the seat of government and capital of the country.

The Mission has many relics. The old paintings, altar, bells and carvings were brought over from Spain in the seventeenth century to Vera Cruz, thence overland to Mexico City, and by burro, or on the backs of Indians, thousands of miles over a rough desert country.

A small admission fee has been charged for years to those wishing to see the old building and the relics, and the money thus collected has been used to support the priests, as the parish is mostly composed of poor people.

One of the most interesting things in the church is the font, at which 15,374 people have been baptized.

When the Franciscans founded the mission, and for many years thereafter, they were possessors of all they saw or cared to take. The fathers owned everything from the mountains to the sea. Where the city of Los Angeles now stands was a pasture ground for vast herds.

Bit by bit the vast estate was encroached upon and finally, with the treaty of Gualdalupe Hidalgo, when California became a possession of the United States, all the Mission ground became public domain with the exception of the small plot on which the church and other buildings stand, and the cemetery.

Slow Trains.

Any one whose fate is to travel around Southern California by train must have marveled at the recent published schedule by which the passengers of the Lusitania and Mauretania are delivered in London.

The run is made from Flahguard to London, a distance of about 140 miles, in 170 minutes. Counting for stops, this would mean an average speed of over a mile a minute. And England is almost without railway accidents.

Contrast this English run into London with the trip from Los Angeles to the village of San Jacinto—a distance of about 100 miles on the schedule time of five hours!

The truth is, our boasted American travel facilities are ridiculously inadequate, particularly as regards local traffic. It never seems to occur to the railroads to put on fast service until Mr. Huntington heaves in sight with his trolley cars. Then they have a spasm of motor cars and frequent trains and other devices.

Any one who uses local train service to any extent must be impressed with these facts: that nearly all the trains use old rolling stock; that they fairly crawl over the track; that it takes an absurdly long time to pile in the baggage at depots; that the whole works has to stand on the track while the brakeman leisurely strolls out to turn the switch, and that the train is not run with the snap and speed one has a right to expect of Americans.

The crew ought to work like a football team coached by "Hurry-up Yost," and the trains ought to take the track like a scared coyote.

We believe in the highest attainable speed. The danger does not lie in speed. It lies in bad railroad construction; dangerous grade crossings and slipshod disregard on the part of the men for the rigidity of orders. We think extreme speed makes train crews more careful.

On some of the cross roads of the East, the crew works like the pony ballet in the modern comic opera—never a step slower than a run. In California the local trains still run on a backwoods basis.

They ought to be brought up with a jerk.

It ought to be dinged into them to hurry, hurry, hurry!

Some system of safety at grade crossings should be devised, as in the East. An engineer should have a right to know when he pulls the throttle and lets her slide out on the track, that he has nothing to look out for but an intervention of Providence. —Times.

Peonage in Mexico.

The sensational charges that a system of peonage, amounting to absolute slavery, exists in Mexico, are made in the current number of the American magazine, in an article entitled "Slavery of Yucatan in Barbarous Mexico," by John Kenneth Turner.

In the editor's foreword he declares that the Mexican government is more autocratic than the Russian, and like Russia, has its Siberia, in a desert land, a spy system, political prisoners and terrible prisons. The reason the news of this has been suppressed, he declares, is because President Diaz has complete control of the news centers.

In the article Turner states that thousands of Mexicans are held in actual slavery, called "enforced service for debts." Hundreds of Yaqui Indians have been sent to the southern section of the country from Sonora. The system operative there, he alleges, permits the creditors to hold a debtor at labor, giving him only enough pay to keep himself and family. In this manner the debt never grows less, and on the death of the debtor, it falls upon the family, which is thus entangled in a cunning legal mesh.

In concluding his expose, Turner says the peons are tortured terribly and compelled to work harder when they attempt to rebel at their fate.

COVINA, CAL.

A MORNING'S CATCH BY COVINA ANGLERS IN CATALINA WATERS

C. E. Boyle and H. W. Bailey Land Two Black Sea Bass and Ground Shark.

Two black sea bass, aggregating in weight 578 pounds, and a ground shark, weighing 225 pounds, a magnificent specimen, represented a splendid morning of sport, with rod and reel, in Catalina waters on Tuesday. The successful anglers were C. E. Boyle and his brother-in-law, H. W. Bailey, well known orange growers of Covina.

The largest black sea bass, weighing 330 pounds, was brought to gaff by Mr. Boyle in 30 minutes. The lighter one Mr. Bailey landed in 27 minutes. The shark was hooked by Mr. Boyle and a battle royal ensued, lasting over one hour and thirty minutes. Again and again the fish tore out hundreds of feet of line from the reel in his magnificent rushes, and when tired and exhausted he was finally brought to gaff he snapped viciously with his wicked mouth at the boatman, never relinquishing the fight until his spinal column had been severed by the huge knife always carried by the boatmen for such emergencies.

Such catches as these are of daily occurrence in Catalina waters, which is truly called the anglers' paradise.

CHARTER OAK.

Mrs. Marston of Pomona was the guest of Mrs. Wm. Kent for a few days the early part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bowring and daughter Winnifred returned home on Tuesday from a two weeks' outing at Catalina.

Mrs. R. H. Howland, who has been seriously ill, as result from an accident, is well on the road to recovery. Mr. Henry Jenner and son Arthur spent Wednesday in Los Angeles to take in the circus.

Mrs. S. A. Stowell and Miss Lottie Stowell and Master John Middleton returned home Monday from Newport Beach, where they have been spending the past three weeks.

Mrs. Wm. Kent entertained with an evening of cards last week in honor of Mr. Kent's birthday. Mr. Kent was presented with a fine new Edison phonograph and a dozen records. Those present for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mace, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cole.

It is beginning to look rather suspicious around the place where two prominent bachelors lived. The partnership of the two has been dissolved. One has built a neat little cottage just large enough for himself, and the other—well, his little old house is moved back and a much larger and finer one is being built in which to welcome his bride in the early winter. We are all waiting to extend congratulations.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Increase of Eighteen Students Opening Day Over First Week of Last Year.

Well, high school is in session once more. The doors of our stately building were thrown open on Monday morning to the assembled throng of old and new students. The total number enrolled up to the present date is 121, an increase of 18 students over the first week of last year.

Keep it quiet, but I heard that on Monday one of the teachers became quite lost in the big building and had to ask the janitor for directions to find the assembly hall. Just a couple of days ago I thought I saw some freshmen blazing a trail around the building so they could find their way to their recitation rooms.

The grounds are being cleared as rapidly as possible, but it will probably be some time before they are in shape for any athletic work. Prof. Morgan has arranged for the old high school grounds to be reserved for the use of the students two afternoons out of each week until the new grounds are in shape.

The automatic song which rings at the end of each recitation period in every room sometimes ring so strenuously that the childlike freshmen jump almost a foot in the air when one of them sounds. It is hoped that the bells will strengthen their nerves for the ordeals they will have to undergo at the end of the school year.

A number of boys, expecting, undoubtedly, to keep "bachelor's hall" when through with their education, have taken up the courses in domestic science and hope to become specialists in the art of wedding the frying pan and the broom.

The department of music, under Prof. Groom, will be greatly strengthened this year. The band and orchestra will be enlarged, a glee club established and singing by the entire school will be a part of the regular program. Courses in harmony and history of music will be taught also, making Covina high school second to none in Southern California in the excellence and wide scope of musical work.

Organization is the order of the day. The officers of the Senior class are: President, Hoyt Lelure; vice-president, Sarah Crook; secretary, Athline Power; treasurer, Robert Phillo.

Next in order comes the Junior class, whose officers are: Zac Asch, president; Seldon Wilson, vice-president; Ray Kistler, treasurer; Crete King, secretary.

The Sophs, with much noise and hot air, have also organized, and the following is their list of officers: President, Edith Hall; vice-president, Jesse Brandt; secretary and treasurer, Earl Phillo.

Miss Adah Wayne, who graduated with the class of '09 last June, was a welcome visitor Thursday afternoon, inspecting the building and renewing acquaintances. Arthur Bixby.

Back From the North.

The Professor and Mrs. Platt are back again after a long visit up North, where they enjoyed the cold winds and fogs of San Francisco and Oakland. The growth of these cities is phenomenal, and like Los Angeles, they appear as mirages to one who has been absent a few years. There are a great many evidences still of the great disaster in San Francisco, notably the ruins of the fine residences of Nob Hill, but the business portion of the city excites admiration in the beauty of the buildings, many of them from eight to ten stories high and of most graceful architecture. We found ourselves constantly stopping on the streets looking at the buildings, and counting the number of stories. We wondered where the energy, the workmanship and the money came from to build in three years such a city. We met many old acquaintances in these beautiful buildings, and some of them rehearsed accounts of total loss of great fortunes accumulated by years of labor, and yet here they were in greater houses, which their intelligent business experience had wrought, by standing their work over again. It is not money alone that builds great cities.

The whole state has been making great progress during the past few years; small towns have turned into cities. Oakland is growing as fast as San Francisco; and there too you see intelligent evidence of great preparation for future growth. San Jose is a large city, and on the road there are many fine villages. Berkeley has joined hands with Oakland and they have become a double city. Contributed by Professor and Mrs. Platt.

Mrs. DeWitt and children, now of Long Beach, has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. James Crouch this week. They leave in a few days for their former eastern home.

CITRUS MEN'S BANQUET.

made by Gen. S. P. Jennison of Covina. Mr. Jennison made a remarkable impromptu speech, in which pathos and humor were remarkably blended. He first made his hearers laugh by his witty remarks. Then he referred to the reception and banquet tendered Senator Flint in Covina, immediately following his election to the United States Senate, at which time he told the Senator in unmistakable words what the growers of California expected of him, and urged the Senator to remember the meaning of true faith.

He asserted that Flint has fulfilled his most earnest hopes. Turning towards the Senator, the venerable speaker said in a voice that shook with emotion: "You are making good, you are indeed making good." Cheers.

The only reference to the increase in the lemon freight rate was made by the three members of congress.

"The railroad companies intend to appropriate for their own benefit about 30 per cent of what we got for you," said Congressman Smith.

"If you meekly submit to this appropriation of what was intended for you, you will find it an almost insurmountable obstacle in obtaining protection the next time a tariff bill comes up, which it will some time. If we had so much as whispered that one penny of this increase would go to the transportation companies, you wouldn't have got it."

"I wish to reiterate and emphasize," said Congressman Needham, "what Congressman Smith has said. The question was raised whether protection should be made to cover transportation, or whether it should be just sufficient to enable an industry to thrive in its own adjacent markets. It seems to me the railroads are cutting off their noses to spite their faces. By giving notice of this increase they are putting a stone in the way of the development of this industry, cutting off their future tonnage. The act is folly and ought to be recalled at once."

Senator Flint gave a general review of the recent tariff legislation, and incidentally said:

"The action of the officials of the transcontinental freight bureau a few days ago in raising the freight rate on lemons, shows a boldness and lack of knowledge of the temper of the American people that is almost inconceivable, and I know of no action that could be taken by the railroads of the country that is so certain to force further legislation regarding railroads, than this unwarranted and unjustifiable act of these railroad officials."

"The railroad officials, without any investigation, arbitrarily raised the freight rate on this commodity so that it nullifies the act of congress. The question is a more far-reaching one than a mere increase in a freight rate, and their action will convince any fair-minded man that the arbitrary power of raising and lowering rates—deciding whether an industry should be permitted to exist or not—should not be left to a body of traffic officials, and I shall favor the enactment of a law that will not permit the raising or lowering of a freight rate by railroad officials without the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Domestic Science in Schools.

The industrial progress of today is demanding a less theoretical education for our youth; an education that will enable them to meet the problems of the day with greater ease, skill and better knowledge of methods. This demand must be, and is being, met by the public schools in the industrial art departments, where opportunities are given our boys to study the best methods of the business world, and our girls to study the best methods in home-making.

Covina is offering this broader education for the girls in the new domestic science and domestic art departments, which have been opened in the public schools this year. A well-equipped kitchen-laboratory, with all the modern appliances and conveniences has been fitted up in the new high school building for the domestic science work, and an equally well equipped room for the domestic art. Every effort will be made to make these courses attractive and profitable, their object being to give the girls a practical course in home economics, studying the subject from a scientific, economical and healthful standpoint. Domestic science courses will be given in plain cooking, with a study of methods; in dietetics, a study of healthful combinations of foods; and in home sanitation. Domestic art courses will include courses in plain sewing, home dressmaking and home decoration. To increase the popularity of this department, a course in domestic science will be offered to married women, the only fee being the cost of materials used in practice.

This is a new department in the schools here, and it is hoped it will be a popular one, for what can bring greater good to a community than to teach the girls to make healthier, happier homes, to which we look for our best citizens?

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church held its regular monthly meeting last Thursday, closing a successful year's work and outlining plans for the coming year. Officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. G. W. Lee; vice-president, Mrs. E. Wallace; secretary, Mrs. B. F. Edwards; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Warner; treasurer, Mrs. H. H. Cushman; superintendent young peoples' work, Mrs. W. M. Warren; superintendent children's work, Mrs. L. A. Jones. Delegates, to be appointed by the president, will represent the auxiliary at the branch convention at Redlands, October 4, 5, and 6, to which all ladies of the church are invited.
